SUPPORT AND GUIDANCE

The following criteria and definitions provide guidance for staff to use to support young people in the process of awarding recognition badges. Please note, this list is not exhaustive and serves to provide practical examples. Please make individual decisions based on your unique settings and young people:

MOTIVATION

Display great qualities of motivation through consistent volunteering to help others with the delivery of sessions.

Some examples may include:

- A young person showing commitment to training opportunities
- Asking questions and keen to receive feedback to improve their skills and knowledge
- Taking extra opportunities to attend and learn
- Be self-driven and show initiative/not always requiring to be asked to do something helpful

“A young person who is self-motivated and consistently shows a hunger to learn and to go the extra mile to develop new skills and ideas.”

WILLINGNESS

Display great qualities of motivation in consistent volunteering to help others through the delivery of the sessions. Some examples may include:

- A young person who is regularly punctual/ even early to help set up and pack away,
- The ability to see tasks through to completion/even the more mundane tasks
- Often volunteers to do more than is expected, happy to start early and stay late if required.

“A student who is keen and eager, always enthusiastic about getting involved and helping other people.”

UNDERSTANDING

Display great qualities of motivation in consistent volunteering to help others through the delivery of the sessions. Some examples may include:

- A young person showing commitment to training opportunities
- Asking questions and keen to receive feedback to improve their skills and knowledge
- Taking extra opportunities to attend and learn
- Be self-driven and show initiative/not always requiring to be asked to do something helpful.

“A young person who is self-motivated and consistently shows a hunger to learn and go the extra mile to develop new skills and ideas.”

RESOURCES AND BADGE SUPPORT

- Please email your nominations and the badge you would like to put forward to CYP@activeessex.org. Please allow a few weeks to receive the badges.
- There is no time limit given to when badges can be given to the young person, this is completely up to your discretion.
